“ I haven't seen Cheyenne in years, but in high school, he spent a lot of time with me and Jennifer Scott (she introduced us). The first time we all hung out was the first day of Summer Break after 9th grade. We read cosmo magazines and watched summer school. I think we spilled something on him (I think perfume) and he ended up having to wear one of my pastel striped pajama tops. My dad walked in, took one look, and walked out. It wasn't the last time the three of us spent laughing our asses off about stupid shit, or the last time my dad just stared blankly and walked out. Cheyenne was such a safe space for us girls, and so much fun. Rest peacefully, Cheyenne. You are loved, and you are remembered.

“ So sorry for your loss. Cheyenne was a great guy. On his way home from work if I was sitting in my swing he would blow his horn and wave. May God strengthen you in the days and months ahead.
