“ I remember so many things about Kascha...years and years of memories, but my favorite was of us running around the daycare our moms worked at together when we were really young. We became like sisters and decided we would name our kids after each other. We never did, but she and I were two peas in a pod. It never changed. She was a true loyal friend as I'm sure everyone would agree. She was so sweet and fun with the brightest and most inviting smile. I will always cherish every moment we spent together that all began as two hoodlums running around a church daycare. Love you, Sis, always.
