“ Sing-Sing and FamilyWhat can be said that even comes close to adequately honor and define Darlene, the Wife, Mother and Sister. She was a gentle timid soul who still could be outspoken and steadfast in support of her basic principles. She was generous to a fault, always looking for ways to serve or share her life's bounty with her loved ones. I have often commented over the past years that only the most lucky people and animals would have Darlene as their benefactor Please find comfort in the fact that while her body has been taken from you, her soul will forever reside in all who knew and loved her.

“ To all of my family, I love you. Darlene was indeed more than just my cousin. My love for her spans so many years, even to first remembrance of childhood days. I grieve that she has left, yet I marvel at the fact that I was blessed to have had her in my life. At no time has a greater person than she traveled the avenues of this life. Her life can only be described as unique and special. My life is better for having known her.
